How to Improve the Journey

1. Keep occupancy data fresh with timestamps and student check-ins.
2. Add filters for quietness, outlets, group rooms, and distance.
3. Give directions and a short reservation grace period.
4. Ask for one-tap feedback so future status becomes more accurate.

Reflection

The biggest frustration is uncertainty: students do not know whether a space will still be available when they arrive. The journey improves when the app provides recent, trustworthy information and requires very little effort. A reservation should reduce wasted walking without making access unfair to other students.
